Row Among the Lepers.

Sister Gertrude Threatens to Resign.

NO DOING HER OWN WAY

The Sisters of St. Vincent, who are in charge of the Leprosy Hospital at Marion, Ohio, are having a row among themselves.

Sister Gertrude, who is in charge of the hospital, has threatened to resign, because she does not like the way the other sisters are running the hospital.

Sister Gertrude is a very strict and efficient manager, and she has been in charge of the hospital for many years. She has been very successful in her work, and she has been very kind to the patients.

The other sisters, however, are not so strict and efficient. They are very kind and gentle, but they are not so good at running the hospital. They are very much attached to Sister Gertrude, and they are very much afraid of her.

Sister Gertrude is very much annoyed by the other sisters. She thinks they are very much in the way, and she thinks they are very much in the way of her work. She is very much annoyed by their interference, and she is very much annoyed by their jealousy.

The row among the sisters is very much of a domestic nature. It is not a very serious row, and it is not a very long row. It is a row that is very much of a domestic nature, and it is a row that is very much of a domestic nature.

TWO MORE ARRESTS.

Detectors Bring in Alleged Train Wreckers.

Two more arrests have been made by the detectives of the Marion Police Department. The two men were arrested on suspicion of being involved in the recent train wreck at Marion, Ohio.

MASTODON'S BONES.

Teeth and Tracks of Enormous Size Unearthed in Indiana.

Valparaiso, Ind., Sept. 9.—In the Beaver Dam ditch, west of Crown Point, Ind., have been found some remains of gigantic animals which formerly roamed this region.

John Biggs, a man who dug these bones out, says the bones were badly decayed. The huge jaw-bones each contained a grinder tooth, ten inches in diameter when the crown, and the jaw-bones and teeth have become solidly petrified. The tusks are broken; they are as big around as a large man's thighs, and would extend five or six feet. The tusks show the ivory eye, but the water and mud have colored the ivory a dirty brown.

The whole collection of bones would more than fill an ordinary wagon box. Mr. Biggs intended to haul the best preserved bones to Crown Point. These bones were found on John Bohling's land, at a narrow place in the marsh, where the cattle have always crossed since the country was civilized. It is conjectured that ancient animals also used this place for a ford. As such remains are always found in low places, it is supposed the monster animals mired and died.

Many such bones have been found in this region, which would seem to indicate that those huge creatures either migrated in hot weather or that this region was once more tropical in its climate.

Boy's Fatal Duet.

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 9.—Charles Steinhilber, 13 years old, and Elbert Hutchins, aged 15, quarreled Sunday afternoon over a girl, and both were killed with an air gun and striking him in the hip. Hutchins returned the fire with a Florentine rifle. Steinhilber received the charge in the left eye and died at 6 o'clock. Hutchins was arrested.

John Boye O'Reilly's Will.

It is Sept. 9. The will of the late John Boye O'Reilly was admitted to probate yesterday. Mr. James S. Murphy, brother of the widow, has been empowered by the court to act as guardian of the children, and will also be authorized by the widow to attend to the details which pertain to her in her capacity of sole executor.

Snailpost on Shipboard.

BATIMORE, Sept. 9.—Schooner S. Johnson, from Havre, France, arrived here yesterday with several cases of snailpost aboard. One of the sailors came ashore and wandered about the streets for some time. He was examined and found to be suffering from varioloid. How the vessel passed quarantine is a mystery.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

A cream of tartar baking powder. Highest of all in leavening strength. U. S. Government report August 17, 1889.

CORNER, WALKER & DAVIS, THE LEADING MERCHANT TAILORS,

Are showing the largest and most complete line of Fall and Winter SUITINGS and OVERCOATINGS ever shown in Marion. Call and see and be convinced.

THE urgent need of a board of trade or a permanent and active industrial committee for Marion was never more strikingly emphasized than just now. On Monday, Mr. A. J. Lytle, a patentee and owner of Lytle's famous pension spring, came to the city to see if our people could be interested in a good enterprise. Of course every owner of a patent thinks he has the greatest thing on earth, but Mr. Lytle really has a valuable invention, at least it is so esteemed by eminent manufacturers, and local inspectors thought so too. His springs are to be used in cushions for chairs, lounges, mattresses, buggy seats, car seats and many other ways, and it enters a field for business that is practically unoccupied.

What did Mr. Lytle do here? Well he managed to meet a few persons, all of whom took a passing interest at least, but none were authorized to speak. Something might be done and ought to be done, but how? Instead of somebody to meet Mr. Lytle in a business way, there was a little informal monkeying. He has a proposition from the Columbus board of trade to capitalize him a big company at any time, but the terms don't just suit, and he is looking elsewhere before he accepts the Capital City offer. A board of trade might have found it wise to do something in this case and it might not, but it could have looked into the matter in a business way. If Columbus could get together one of the most notable gatherings of business men to consider the Lytle enterprise, and make an offer that led the papers to predict a new industry employing a thousand men, it would have been worthy of Marion's consideration. But Marion doesn't seem to be moving just now. We are not even moving in the matter of a board of trade, and that doesn't cost anything to speak of.

Mr. Lytle was to have left the city this afternoon, but will still be at the Hotel Marion over night. There is nothing to lose and much to gain by interested men calling upon him there and learning, if possible, if Marion wants to act in the matter.

The re-election of Speaker Reed to Congress by a doubled plurality is pretty strong endorsement of his "tyranny" ruling as presiding officer of the House. It is all the more surprising because the Eastern democratic papers had been predicting his defeat or at least a very small plurality. We fear Mr. Reed fares better in his re-election than his party will, however. That is to say, all congressional action will not be so decidedly endorsed as his business-like ruling has.

Gates has but recently contracted for a new industry, and Delaware is up and moving for some new concerns. In the meantime Marion is busy letting industrial matters take care of themselves. There isn't anyone that does not know of the error of such a course and it will not be long until the day is at hand when this fact will be strikingly realized.

If Marion doesn't get a Congressional nomination tomorrow we shall conclude the fate is against us. Mr. Young goes to the Carey convention a strong leader and he ought to be a winner. There are Marion county dark horses, too, but the dark horses are not in it this time.

Here's hoping that at this time tomorrow we may be putting Hon. B. C. Young's nomination into type. Marion will be creditably represented at Carey.

The Crotus Comedy Co. Music Hall was crowded Monday night with an eager crowd to witness the opening production of the Crotus Comedy Co., which gave the beautiful "Storm Beaten" for its first performance before a Marion audience. The success of the opening was evidenced by the applause and enthusiastic cheering of the audience throughout the play, and there is promise of a big success.

Richard and Charles Crotus were popular as fun makers, and W. A. Fredie captured the audience with his portrayal of the strong character Christian Christianson. The characters were in good form, and the whole proved very satisfactory. The company is certainly a very strong one in repertoire of comedies, and has ever appeared here.

Tonight the sensational play, "Sunshine and Shadows" will be presented with a strong cast and low prices.

He has twenty years of experience in the medical profession, and is now in the city, the guest of Mrs. Stella Merchant, on east Center street.

STREETS AND ALLEYS

Occupies the Attention of the City Council. A Two Hours' Session, without Special Interest.

Since the city council met on Monday night, the city council has been occupied with the question of the city's streets and alleys. The council has been holding a two hours' session, without special interest.

After the extraordinary formalities, as reported by Chairman Kline, the question of certain improvements was discussed, among them the recommendation of the committee providing for grading and putting in a water on Barnhart, Mark, Hays and George streets at 14th and 15th avenues.

The committee presented an estimate on the probable cost of extending Center street, and on motion was granted further time to consider the matter.

The plans of August Kramer and of Martha and Daniel Lutz were reported and referred to the committee.

The matter of changing the grade on Vine street was recommended, but as there were not enough members present to pass an ordinance final action was deferred until the next meeting.

The deed of John Gurley and others, dedicating property now being used as a street known as Gurley avenue was reported and acceptance recommended.

An ordinance providing for the acceptance was prepared and passed, and the deed was accepted and the property was turned over to the city.

An ordinance providing for the construction of the grade and curbing on south Main street, between Pleasant and Center streets, recommending that bonds be issued to contractor for payment of same, payable from one to five years, with interest at 7 per cent, was adopted.

A statement of engineer on the west Center street improvement was reported, stating the amount due David Kelly, the contractor, to be $620.20, which was ordered paid.

Chairman Leuder, of the sewer committee, presented an estimate from the engineer, reporting the completion of 6,700 feet, with six manholes, amounting to $588.85, less the 20 per cent reserved, which left the amount due $471.08, which was ordered paid, along with other bills.

The committee on accounts recommended the payment of a number of bills, among them the special police bills, and a crushed stone bill, all of which were ordered paid.

Council adjourned until Wednesday evening, Sept. 17th.

AND MAN'S DOWNFALL

Daily Joe Gates, the stenographer, Leaves the City With Debt and Forgery Behind Him.

It was one of the days of the downtown long drive, and the city was full of people. The developments in the case of Joe Gates, the stenographer, were quite startling, and his fall from grace was quite sudden.

Joe Gates, a man of 21 years, has been a stenographer of the Huber, for about three years. He was efficient in his profession and courteous and agreeable and his cheerful disposition made him very popular. So, when it was learned that he was discharged last Saturday night and had left the city with some old debts and some very new ones behind, there was a disposition to pass the matter by. It was thought he had only yielded to passing temptations and his former behavior was such that he should be allowed to depart and begin life anew elsewhere, without the odium of general exposure.

But his friends are appalled with the enormity of his errors. Investigations proved that he was more than a mere debtor, a forger.

For forging the Huber Manufacturing company's checks for sums of $25 and $40 and other sums he was quietly discharged, with some valuable advice, last Saturday night. That was believed to be his only offense. That night he made some excuse to get his trunk from J. C. Robinson's, where he owed three months' room rent, and left ostensibly for Youngstown, so he represented to C. J. Wiley of whom he secured a package book on the Erie. Before leaving, however, he borrowed sums of $5 or $10 from different persons, and secured a fine pair of shoes at Tristram & Young's, on the pretext that he would take them to his room to try them on.

Now still more serious charges develop. At the Farmers' bank is a note of $150 bearing Gates' name secured by the forged name of L. Huber, and at Luby's bank are a couple notes, amounting to $200, to which Frank A. Huber's name is forged for security. The genuineness of these notes was never questioned until the signatures were pronounced forgeries in the investigations Monday.

It is difficult to realize that the young man can be so deeply involved, but the facts exist. Even those who suspicious of some of the young man's transactions had no idea of the extent of his misdoings.

The question arises as to what has become of all his money. He was paid a nice salary, one on which many young men could have had by comfortable savings. Gambling is assigned as the cause of his ruin. It is doubtless largely true, but men who know of his adventures in risking money say it is impossible that he should have squandered a sum that the circumstances indicate, for his legitimate debts are unusually large.

Whatever may have been the causes the affair is unfortunate and is much regretted. Prosecutions are liable to ensue, if Joe's location is found. But that will not heighten the sensational effects.

Country Board

It is a fact that before, remarked a country board, the city people are galled by the country in the country, especially on a rainy occasion. You can say all you please about the credulous farmer, but it was my experience that those of our rural friends who are in the summer resort are many times more galled by the rural way than are those who remain in the city.
